Federal Issue Highlights 2020

Local Decision-Making Authority
Locally elected mayors and councilmembers are in the best position to determine what health, safety, and welfare regulations will have the greatest benefit for their constituents. Cities must have sufficient authority and flexibility to meet the challenges of governing and providing citizens with public services that meet their specific needs. We urge Congress to work to strengthen the federal, state, and municipal relationship and preserve the critical principle of local control.

Transportation
Federal funding for roads, transit, airports, railways, and ports provides critical support for the infrastructure that successful cities and a strong national economy need to grow. We urge Congress to support adequate and reliable long-term funding for transportation infrastructure that reflects local needs and priorities. A portion of federal transportation dollars should be made directly available to cities for important local projects.

Affordable Housing
Supplying affordable housing to all Minnesotans is the smartest investment we can make in Minnesota's future. Unfortunately, federal funding for housing programs has been either frozen or cut, negatively impacting state funding as well. Cities are stepping up but they cannot close the housing affordability gap on their own. We urge Congress to prioritize affordable housing resources to meet the growing demand and to work with local partners to coordinate federal assistance.

Wireless Siting
Minnesota cities help provide next-generation wireless services by providing access to city assets and public rights of way for wireless equipment. Wireless companies pay city expenses for processing applications and reasonable rent for use of city assets. Recent rulemaking by the FCC has eroded local control by imposing shot clocks, preempting aesthetic requirements, and creating arbitrary limits for application fees and rents. We urge Congress to consider overturning the FCC rulings and oppose any legislation that further erodes local authority over the siting of wireless equipment.

Cable Franchising
To gain access to public rights of way needed to reach their customers, private cable companies pay a negotiated franchise fee to the city responsible for those public assets. A recent FCC Order allows cable companies to reduce their franchise fee payments by deducting non-financial franchise obligations. This change undermines current franchise fee agreements, threatens public programming, and hamstrings how cities manage public property. We urge Congress to address the harmful effects of this order and oppose any action to erode fair compensation for commercial use of public rights of way.

Water and Wastewater
Local governments provide safe, reliable, and affordable water and sewer service while meeting state and federal regulations for protecting public health and the environment. Minnesota has identified a $13 billion need for wastewater and drinking water infrastructure improvements over the next 20 years. Cities and the state are increasing investment to address this gap, but support from federal policymakers is crucial. We urge Congress to support additional funds for the Environmental Protection Agency's state clean water and drinking water revolving loan accounts and to provide additional funding to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development for small and low-income communities.
